How Bert R. Lean, of Cheny, Wash, was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help ms. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. Claims Lack of Enthusiasm.

Mr. Editor: The weter is a fatherly old chap of 78, and he takes an active interest in the local weters of Jowett City's good, honest, whole-souled, public-spirited private citizens, many of which compose the members of the baseball team.

Now. Mr. Editor, you like to hear The Buffetin eulogized occasionally, don't you? You get the news every day from one of its cloverest correspondents and meet a lot of Jewett City friends, new and then, don't you? Most editors like it; in fact, that is one of the test signs of the craft. But to the point in question—perhaps one of the test signs of the craft. But to the point in question—perhaps "Yours Truly" is not very good authority on baseball matters, but he knows that the boys don't get their overcoats mixed with their summer clothing when it comes to tangible evidence to support their claims, and their mutterings this morning hinged on that very point; and the following is in substance the position they take:

When your home team wips a wellfugger of the town and at the time of his coulogise without alloy; but when Jewsell lays her foe to rest, it's then your concepts the craft.
